INSIDE & OUT: DIALOGS ABOUT AUTISM BETWEEN A MOTHER & SON BY NEDI SAFA, MATT B.F.A. PDF

A SUCCESS STORY LIKE NO OTHER Parents of Autistic children everywhere struggle desperately, often not knowing how their children feel, and wondering if they're doing the right things for their child. Told from two points of view, mother and son, this unique dialog will be invaluable. At the age of 3, Matt's mom was told that he would never learn to read more than the two words "Danger" and "Exit". They were wrong. Matt is now a college graduate, and winner of the Temple Grandin Award for outstanding achievement by a person with Autism. He works and drives and lives independently. He and his mother have together told their struggles and success story: What worked, what didn't, and how EACH of them felt at the time.

Candid, funny, heartwarming and wise – this book is of interest to anyone who is interested in what it takes to succeed and flourish happily.

Great, Positive Book on Autism

By Rachel Clark

I have enjoyed this book, which reads like a conversation among authors Matt & Nedi Safa, and the reader. I like how open and honest it is with everything it discusses, while always maintaining an overall positive sense about it. I would recommend it to others on the autism spectrum, as well as to parents of autistic children, and anyone who would like to gain the kinds of insights into autism that only an individual who has lived the path of having autism can offer.

Rare opportunity to hear both mother and adult son share their experience

By Lissa Lazaro

I formerly worked in a foster care agency serving many children who fell somewhere on the autism spectrum. I wish I had this book at that time to share not only with families, but also with the staff seeking to help them. This mother and son, through the gift of their story, allow us the rare opportunity to see what the experience of our decisions feels like to a child who may not be able to articulate them, and a parent who consistently seeks to understand. Matt gives us the opportunity to deepen our sensitivity to what "for your own good" medications and treatments can feel like..Nedi shows the inestimable value of a parent's belief in her child's ability to succeed and share his gifts. Parents of children diagnosed with autism can find here the possibility of hope.
